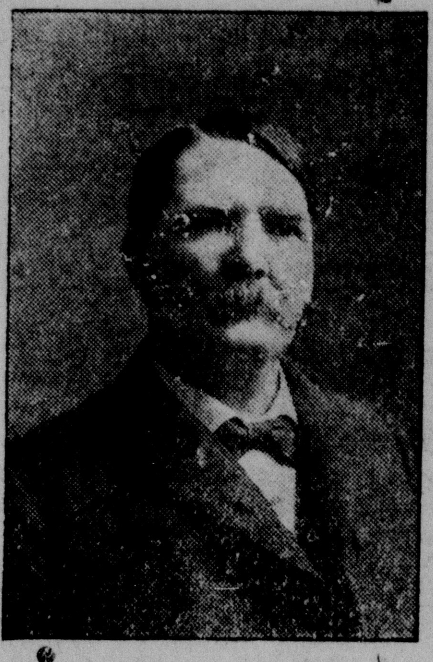
Candidates in the Field For City Commissioners

M. J. GANNON, HENRY SCHMIDT, JAMES DEVINE AND MARK SMITH TO RUN.

MALONEY HAS ANNOUNCEMENT

Three Candidates for Mayor Have Their Petitions Out and Are Getting Busy.



MICHAEL MALONEY
Who Has His Petitions in Circulation as Candidate for Mayor

Candidates for commissioner are becoming numerous. Today the petitions of James Devine and Henry Schmidt were taken out and are now in circulation.

Alderman Mark Smith's petition will be forthcoming soon. Alderman Henry Schmidt's friends will be pleased to hear that he has decided to make the race. He has been a conservative and useful member of the council and if elected will make a splendid commissioner. He, like Alderman Martin Gannon, is familiar with the affairs of the city and can begin the new duties with considerable knowledge of municipal affairs.

Both Aldermen Schmidt and Gannon have been spoken of as good men for mayor, but since they have decided to give up that ambition it is almost a foregone conclusion that both will run up near the head of the ticket for commissioners.

James Devine has never before ventured in a municipal campaign. But he is well qualified by experience and otherwise to fill the office of commissioner with credit. Mr. Devine's friends are numerous.

Alderman Smith's candidacy will be welcomed by a large number of voters. His record in the council has been good. It stands out prominently. He was a fearless champion for the peoples' rights and he never failed to get on the right side of all public questions.

Mayoralty Campaign Warms.

The mayorlty campaign has advanced from the infant class, and has grown to maturity.

W. B. Brinton, Alderman Richard C. Bovey and Former Postmaster M. Maloney are the aspirants thus far. All three are capable of making a thorough canvass of the city and all three have a following that will count considerable when the votes are counted.

Mr. Maloney's petitions are now being circulated, and he makes the following announcement of his candidacy:

Mr. Maloney's Announcement

Upon the earnest solicitation of many friends I finally consent to become a candidate for Mayor of this my native city; believing as I do that I possess the necessary qualifications to fill the place to the satisfaction of the greatest number of our people.

As a matter of fact, I have no other way of judging the future than by the past.

That no business, much less that of this city, can succeed without the loyalty and good will of the rank and file of citizens.

I want to take this opportunity to say to the citizens that if I am elected I will put forth my best effort to carry out the law, regardless of who it pleases or displeases, for I have no hesitancy in saying that I would rather be right and unpopular than be wrong and popular.

Again, let me say in every degree of candor that if in your wise judgement Mr. B. or Mr. B. would manage the affairs of this my native city to a better advantage to the city and its people, we will still be friends.

I am the oldest in years, I can wait.

(Signed) Respectfully yours:
M. MALONEY.

Snyder Is Out.

Late this afternoon B. F. Snyder took out his petition for commissioner. Mr. Snyder made a very good run for alderman in the Second ward a year ago and believes his friends will rally to his support in his ambition to represent the city as a commissioner.

BILLOWS OF FOAM ON THE RIVER

CURIOUS FORMATION WAS SEEN BELOW THE DAM THIS MORNING.

The river below the dam was an object of a great deal of interest today, especially this morning, because of the great hills and billows of foam that were piled up on the bars and patches of ice.

The foam was pure white and when the wind blew the great piles would tremble and undulate, for there was practically no weight to the stuff, and hundreds of pieces the size of a man's hat and smaller, were detached from the main bodies and sailed around in the air, some of them going as high as fifty feet and eeming to hang in midair.

The phenomenon was attributed to the fog and dampness in the air.

LODGES JOINTLY OWN FURNITURE

FINE EQUIPMENT IN MACCABEE HALL NOW HAS FOUR OWNERS.

The Stars of Equity, M. W. A. and Mystic Workers, together with the Maccabees are now the owners of the furniture and fixtures in the Maccabee hall. Each of the above lodges owns one-fourth interest in the furniture.

The deal was consummated a day or so ago.

Each lodge has named a committee of three members, at the head of which is Joseph McCleary, to have the matters pertaining to the furniture, etc., in charge.

The Stars of Equity held a regular meeting Tuesday night and initiated two candidates. A communication from the Franklin Grove assembly announcing a basket social to be given by that lodge, was read. A number of the Dixon members will attend the social in Franklin Grove tonight.

Miss Lewis, T. N., has returned from Amboy, where she has been on duty for three weks.

PLANS MADE FOR WRESTING MATCH

BILLY MONSON TO MEET BRUGGLIO, THE BIG HUNGARIAN, ON THURSDAY.

ATHLETIC MEET AT ELKS CLUB

Dornan Did Some Clever Work; Olsen Defeated German Schults on the Mat.

The wrestling match for February 2nd, a week from tonight, will be surely pulled off and all arrangements have been completed for an entertaining evening.

The match will be between "Billy" Monson of Tampico and Emanuel Brugglio of Chicago. Monson will weigh in at 168 pounds and Brugglio, the big Hungarian, tips the scales at about 175 pounds. Brugglio has made a reputation for himself and has successfully met all comers in the light heavyweight class.

At Fulton Tuesday.

On Tuesday, Jan. 31st, there will be a wrestling match in Fulton under the management and supervision of Monte (Spud) Bales, formerly of Dixon. The match will be pulled off in the opera house. The participants will be Monson of Tampico vs. Slaymaker of Albany for the first go and later in the evening Birden of Tampico will wrestle Ted Tonneman of Chicago. This double header promises to be good and several Dixon men are thinking of attending.

Elks' Athletic Night.

A large number of good Elks were on hand at the local club house last night and thoroughly enjoyed the evening, which consisted of various athletic exhibitions and a social session.

The athletic meet was held in the lodge rooms on the top floor and consisted of first class club swinging and bag punching by Dornan of Chicago. His trick of punching the bag with no rope attached all over the floor and up the walls of the hall was a new one.

"Kid" Olsen of this city and German Schults of Chicago went on for a wrestling match and made things lively for awhile. "German" was wiry and well set up, but was no match for the local lad and Olsen threw him in two straight falls, getting the first one in 19 minutes with a scissors on the body and a half Nelson, and the second in 18 minutes with a scissors and arm hold.

How About Baseball?

This warm, sloppy weather makes us think of spring—and baseball.

What is Dixon going to do about a baseball team this year? It's a cinch we have got to have one. Let's not be back numbers or let anyone think we are lacking in spirit or sporting blood. There is plenty of good material for a team and with the proper support we can have a club here that will be both an honor and an advertisement to Dixon.

It is true that several good efforts toward maintaining a team in the past have failed, but if the citizens, especially the business men, can be made to see the benefit that a good, clean playing, winning baseball team would be to our city it seems reasonable to suppose that they would be glad to lend a hand and help push a good thing along.

JURY DISAGREED IN WRAGG CASE

DISMISSED AFTER BEING OUT WITH CASE NINETEEN HOURS.

COMMISSION CASE IS ON TRIAL

Decision Will Be of Much Interest to All the Real Estate Dealers.

After being out from 4:30 u. m. yesterday until 11:30 today the jury the case of Peter Wragg vs. City of Dixon reported to Judge Farrand that it could not agree.

Several times this morning the jurors sent word to the court that they wished to read more evidence in case and then it was thought they could not agree. But the vote stood 7 to 5 in favor of the plaintiff and there could not possibly be a change in the vote.

The judge called the jurors into the court room and discharged them.

This ends the case for this term.

City Attorney M. C. Keller, who tried the case for the city made an enviable record this term. This disagreement in the case is largely a victory for the city.

Mr Wragg sued the city for $5.000 for an accident last September, a run away, caused by the city steam roller.

Commission Case Up.

A commission case involving $1925 in which H. W. Leydig is plaintiff and F. B. Townsend of Sycamore and F. C. Patten of Chicago was called this morning. Mr. Leydig asks the above commission for negotiating a trade involving 2000 acres of land in Minnesota and the electric plant at Polo.

The case is of interest to real estate men and several from Rochelle, Sterling and DeKalb are present. On account of the large commission the outcome of the case will establish a precedent in the sale of real estate in northern Illinois.

Attorney H. A. Brooks appears for the plaintiff and H. S. Dixon of this city and Attorney Faisler of Sycamore for the defendant.

"WONDERLAND OF AMERICA" SUBJECT

OF LECTURE BY R. J. BENNETT AT Y. M. C. A. FRIDAY EVENING.

The Yellowstone National Park, unsurpassed in the United States for grandeur and beauty of scenery, of comparatively easy access, is nevertheless little appreciated and known about by our people.

Everybody should know about this beauty spot in our land.

You may see it and learn all about it without the inconvenience and expence of travel at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow evening. R. J. Bennett delivers his lecture on this beautiful tract which he calls "The Wonderland of America," at 8 p. m. and illustrates it with over 100 beautifully colored slides.

The park has an area of 3312 square miles, is rectangular in shape, about 61 miles long and 53 miles from east to west. It is situated in Montana largely with narrow strips in Idaho and Wyoming. Its scenery consisting of lakes and waterfalls mountains and canons, hot springs and geysers and petrified forests, is described as grand and sublime. The lower Yellowstone falls are 300 feet high while the upper falls are 112 feet. Mountain peaks upwards of 12-000 feet are found in the Absoroka, Red, Washburn and Gallatin ranges.

REV. STONE PREACHED IN ROCK FALLS

Sterling Gazette: The sermon delivered by Rev. Fred D. Stone of Dixon in the Rock Falls M. E. church last evening was well attended despite many counter attractions. His sermon was very good and went to the hearts of his listeners. It was a splendid sermon and while many went for the reason that it was a Rock Falls boy who was to speak, yet the result was good. Rev. A. C. Geyer will preach there this evening.

Bribery Charges Sprung in West Virginia Legislature

REPUBLICANS LEAVE HALL IN A BODY BEFORE VOTE IS TAKEN.

DEMOCRATS ELECTS SENATORS

Chilton and Watson Named; Republicans Threaten to Stay Away During Session.

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 26.—At the session of the legislature, Delegate Moore, Republican, offered a resolution asking for the postponement of the election of senators for fifteen days until charges of bribery could be investigated. The resolution also stated it was rumored that Delegate Shock had been given $1,000 and was promised $1,500 more, and that Shock had shown the money he had received to William G. Bennett and John W. Davis. He asked immediate consideration, but this was voted down. A motion was then made to compel all of the members present to vote, whereupon the Republicans left the hall in a body.

With only Democrats present, Senator Bland bolted the caucus nominations by attacking Watson's Democracy, and then read a letter purporting to contain "Shock's statement in which he admitted having received the bribe."

This letter explicitly charged that the money had been received and exhibited. He thereupon nominated Thomas E. Hodges for the long term, while Delegate Hubbard named William R. Thompson.

Amid great excitement the vote was then taken and resulted: Chilton, 71; Hodges, 3; Thompson, 1; J. W. Davis, 1. Chilton was then declared elected for the long term.

Several Democrats who had ballotted before returned, claiming the bribery charges had no basis. When Watson was nominated for the short term, his name being presented by Delegate Woods, Delegate Hubbard nominated Louis Bennett. This vote resulted: Watson, 70; Bennett, 5; David 2.

Immediately after the announcement that they had been elected, Messers. Chilton and Watson appeared and made addresses, each declaring in turn that they had not paid any money to secure their nominations, and they courted the fullest investigation. They did not want any cloud upon their titles and if it could not be shown, beyond a reasonable doubt, that the charges were unfounded they would decline to serve.

The compromise proposition has been abandoned, the arbitrators having failed to reach an agreement and the Republicans now say they will absent themselves during the session.

Danderine

GROWS HAIR
and we can
PROVE IT!

A lady from Minnesota writes:
"As a result of using Danderine, my hair is close to five feet in length."

Beautiful Hair At Small Cost

HAIR troubles, like many other diseases, have been wrongly diagnosed and altogether misunderstood. The hair itself is not the thing to be treated, for the reason that it is simply a product of the scalp and wholly dependent upon its action. The scalp is the very soil in which the hair is produced, nurtured and grown, and it alone should receive the attention if results are to be expected. It would do no earthly good to treat the stem of a plant with a view of making it grow and become more beautiful—the soil in which the plant grows must be attended to. Therefore, the scalp in which the hair grows must receive the attention if you are to expect it to grow and become more beautiful.

Loss of hair is caused by the scalp drying up, or losing its supply of moisture or nutriment; when baldness occurs the scalp has simply lost all its nourishment, leaving nothing for the hair to feed upon (a plant or even a tree would die under similar conditions.)

The natural thing to do in either case, is to feed and replenish the soil or scalp as the case may be, and your crop will grow and multiply as nature intended it should.

Knowlton's Danderine has a most wonderful effect upon the hair glands and tissues of the scalp. It is the only remedy for the hair ever discovered that is similar to the natural hair foods or liquids of the scalp.

It penetrates the pores quickly and the hair soon shows the effects of its wonderfully exhilarating and life-producing qualities.

One 25-cent bottle is enough to convince you of its great worth as a hair growing and hair beautifying remedy—try it and see for yourself.

NOW at all druggists in three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

Cut This Out

FREE To show how quickly Danderine acts, we will send a large sample free by return mail to anyone who sends this free coupon to the KNOWLTON DANDERINE CO., CHICAGO, ILL., with their name and address and 10c in silver or stamps to pay postage.

Going to the engineer's side he found that he was dead on the seat, his right hand holding the throttle. Mr. Kitel was about 50 years old and began his railway career in Sterling. LARGE LAND PURCHASE

Crucible Steel Company Plans Improvements on Tract.

Property Located on Ohio River Below Beaver Dam—Coal and Limestone Tracts Also Acquired.

Pittsburg, Jan. 26. — Arrangements have been perfected by directors of the Crucible Steel Company of America for the formation of the Pittsburg Crucible Steel company and for the purchase of 425 acres of the property of the Midland Steel company on the Ohio river below Beaver, upon which improvements will be made costing in the aggregate $7,500,000.

The remarkable growth in the demand of high grade steel and inability to increase the open hearth department in Pittsburg, compelled this acquiring of a location adequate for future expansion.

Included in the purchase are 1,800 acres of coal land on the opposite side of the Ohio and the intention is to construct an aerial carrier for the handling of the coal direct to the furnaces. The Crucible also acquires 130 acres of limestone near Newcastle.

The committee appointer to act with the commissioners of higaways of Willow Creek township in construction of a bridge in said town, present the following report:

We the undersigned committee heretofore appointed to act with the commissioners of Willow Creek township in the construction of a bridge in said town, would respectfully report as follows:

On June 28, 1910, we met at the site of the bridge in Willow Creek on the highway east of Wm. Fuestman's residence in section 29 and found that said town was entitled to county aid in the building of such bridge and instructed the clerk to advertise for bids for a 35-ft. bridge with concrete abutments and wings.

On July 8, 1910, we met at the site of the bridge and let the contract to M M Billmire of Ashton, Illinois, for the construction of a steel and concrete bridge all complete for the sum of $1500 and $24 for furnishing and placing 6 iron piles to protect abutments.

On October 15, 1910, we met at the site of the bridge to examine said bridge and found the same completed and in compliance with the plans and specifications and thereupon accepted the same. We therefore recommend that the clerk be instructed to issue an order payable to M M Billmire in the sum of $762, the same being Lee county's half of the contract price of said bridge.

H L Fordham,
Chas Evans,
A S Wells,
Committee.

DEMENT TOWN DOINGS

Politics has been given a rest on the avenue. This morning we heard much talk of the new wagon bed factory. Citizens of the avenue see great things in the future for the new industry. They see additional houses, an increase in population, more business and more money in circulation.

To them the talk of another factory for this growing end of the city was once a dream. They begin to see their dream realized.

Talk Maloney.

Friends of Mr. Maloney still talk him for mayor. It is thought by men here who are close to the former postmaster that he will soon announce himself as a candidate. Tomorrow may tell the story. Mr. Brinton rather looks upon the candidacy of Mr. Maloney as a good omen. And strange as it may seem, here are two men who are similar in many respects. Both brainy, wholesouled, aggressive men. Men whose interests are in Dixon and who aid materially to the growth and prosperity of the city.

Brinton Busy.

We called on Mr. Brinton this morning. He was very busy with office affairs. He is in the campaign to win. He will make a house to house campaign but he will do, otherwise, what is legitimate to win the honor which the people of Dixon have in their power to bestow. Mr. Brinton to day would rather talk wagon bed factory than politics.

What's In a Name.

"Slats" Hasselberg, switchman in the Northwestern yards, is ill and taking a much needed rest. "Boomer" Penrose is supplying his position.

We use the names "Slats" and "Boomer" because none would know these popular boys if we used their correct names. But they know well how we feel about this matter.

Harry Pumphrey, the laundryman, was on the avenue Wednesday going to DeKalb.

Distinguished Guest.

The avenue entertained a cousin of the famous LaFollette of Wisconsin. He is C. S. LaFollette, traveling passenger agent for the Big Four. Mr. LaFollette comes from a family of politicians. His brother is serving Wisconsin as a member of the lower house of the general assembly.

How we miss Skyrocket. He could furnish us with much dope for this column.

Gerhard Frerichs, tailor, was called to Iowa to attend the funeral of an uncle.

Mrs. Wm. Plein is better.

George Wilcox, wholesale grocer, of Sterling, was on the avenue Tuesday.

Had we more men like Joseph Pollack. He knows what to do. Let us have fire escapes.

A prominent merchant of the avenue said this morning: I never invested $1.50 to better advantag than when I put my Dollar Day ad. in the Telegraph. Your paper is solely responsible for the big business I did Saturday.

Thanks Mr. Merchant, talks like that make us happy. The Telegraph always tries to do the right thing for the happiness of mankind.

No robins yet.

Springlike, isn't it.

We will have something to say soon about the cat of the grocery store. It is a wise creature.

Mike Reilly, switchman in the I. C. yards has been ill for a week or more. He was able to get out today.

Wm. Hawley has resumed his run as conductor on the Peoria passenger. He has been taking a vacation.

BLAST CAUSES PANIC

The employe killed was a girl of about fifteen years.

MEXICAN RAIL STRIKE

Southern Pacific System Tied Up as Result of Wage Dispute.

Guadalaja, Mex., Jan. 26.—More than one thousand miles of railway track of the Southern Pacific railway system of Mexico is still tied up without a wheel being turned as a result of the strike of the American railway engineers and firemen.

Parried.

A mother of four daughters, one of whom had recently married, cornered an eligible young man in the drawing room.

"And which of my girls do you most admire, might I ask?"

"The married one," was the prompt reply.

Just Guessing.

The Skeptical—Parson do you really believe that faith can move mountains?

The Parson—Friend, have you been observing what American faith has been doing in the Culebra Cut, at Panama?

"Let's get some lunch and a bottle of whisky and take a day off, squirrel hunting. We'll go to Thompson's woods."

"I haven't got any gun."

"That won't matter—there ain't any squirrels in Thompson's woods."

A woman expects all manner of blessings, but she never gives up because she doesn't get any of them.

It's a luxury to spend money on a girl you're engaged to, and a necessity on one you're married to.

When a man does a good deed he thinks it's much more than it is; when a bad one, much less.

Self-control is easiest when you are under somebody else's strong rule.

Where Dreams Wait

Enter now Love's Garden,
Where the roses wait;
Follow with the sunlight
Through the Morning Gate;
Soon the shadows gather
In a weary sky,
Where the gray dusk deepens
And the dream must die.

But now the dream is with you,
Rose-sweet in the light;
Where God's own smile above you
Has "kissed the darkness white;"
A dream above life's glory,
A dream beyond Life's gain;
As sweet as spring's first violets
Pearl-rinsed in April's rain.

Far, far, the bells are ringing
Life's fame across the years;
Far, far, the lights are gleaming
Across the rain of tears;
And they shall lead you outward,
But some day you shall know
The loss of one dream vanished
Within the long ago.

A SAD BOY KING.

Portugal's throne seems to have crumbled under young King Manuel, and like its sister country, Brazil, the little monarchy is doubtless converting itself into a republic.

The boy king of Portugal and his mother, Queen Amelie, are not responsible for the turn of affairs. Since the assassination of King Carlos and the Crown Prince in 1908 the government has been in constant turmoil. Efforts of the young king and his mother to restore peace were of little avail, for the assassination of unpopular King Carlos was a decided step toward a republic, and the republicans have been gaining ground ever since.

Carlos was a cruel and unwise king. The Crown Prince was unpopular, and their death afforded some relief to the strained situation, as King Manuel is a wholesome boy and his attractive mother is much beloved and has many friends on the thrones of Europe.

But restraint of the press and unwise action on the part of the cabinet have fomented trouble. Many of King Manuel's advisers have come in for severe criticism from the republicans, and the recent extension of the peerage list was a sad mistake.

Because of interrupted communications it is uncertain where the boy king is, but several reports have credited him with fleeing to a British warship which was lying in port at Lisbon. If this be true, it is in a way a repetition of Emperor Dom Pedro's flight from Rio Janeiro. He, too, took flight on a friendly warship and sailed away from Brazil that it might convert itself into a republic. And right well the Portuguese in the South American country have done in running their government without the aid of a monarch.

President Fonseca of Brazil has been the guest of King Manuel, and it is on the vessel carrying the president that Manuel was at one time supposed to have taken refuge. It would be a queer turn of affairs if Manuel were to seek a haven in a Latin-American republic, but Brazil would doubtless seem more like home to him than any other country, for there he would find fellow-countrymen speaking his own language.—Columbus Dispatch.

THAT ANCIENT JOKE.

By Kennett Harris.

Tell it again my dear old friend,
Of course I've heard it oft before,
I know the mirth-provoking end
And don't consider it a bore.
I do not shrug, I do not sneer,
Or rudeness with politeness cloak.
With you, I always hold it dear;
Tell it again, that good old joke.

Tell it again. You can rely
Upon my ready, cheerful grin;
I do not have to half-way try
To chuckle where the laugh comes in.
If it is long, I don't complain
Of that, like some exacting folk;
On my endurance it's no strain—
Tell it again, that good old joke.

I love it, and I always shall.
I love it, for its own sweet sake,
And then it's worth the price, old pal,
To see your sides and shoulders shake,
To see the wrinkles at your nose,
To hear you crow and gasp and choke,
Then—I must stand it, I suppose—
Tell it again, that good old joke!

Ruined by Prosperity.

"Dar now!" exclaimed Brother Dickey. "You see what prosperity does fur a pusson, don't you? Look at dat man yonder. W'en he wuz po he wuz happy, but he won a prize er $10, an' fum dat day ter dis he ain't knowed what peace is! His wife wanted ter buy a hat wid de money an' he wanted to go into de bankin' business, an' dar's whar de row started. An' it ain't likely dat it'll stop soon either. An' all on account er strikin' sudden riches by winnin' dat $10 prize. May de good Lawd keep me po' an' peaceful!"

A Natural Death.

A friend dropped in on an old lady who was frying a bit of bacon.

"Grand bacon, that," said the friend, sniffing affably.

"Grand bacon? Well, I guess it is grand bacon," said the old lady, turning the slices in the pan. "An' it's none o' yer murdered stuff, nuther. That pig died a natural death."

Crooked people talk much about character.

THE WRITING OF A SONG.

Who would not write a popular song, if he could—that is, a popular song of the better order? Three things are essential to its production: A universal sentiment, an apt rythmical expression and tuneful music. If one of the three can be spared it is the second. The sentiment is the body and the music is the wings; the form ought also to be good, but the history of the song successes shows that many have been won without it. Given the right thought, in form however crude, an accomplished composer can equip it with a tune that will give it sustained flight from the platform or stage to the throng and from the throng to the street and from the street everywhere. It is the composer who makes or mars the success of a good sentiment—a fact which is often obscured, especially in the honoring of the writers of religious hymns and gospel songs.

So great are the rewards of successful song-writing that one cannot wonder at the myriad attempts or the strenuous efforts to guard against the theft of a song once written. A fortune has often been won by a single song and, aside from the money reward, there is the pleasure of knowing that one has contributed to the happiness of his fellows. The money and the gratification, lumped together, makes a prize worth working for, though, unhappily, not often achieved.—Columbus Dispatch.

Dramatic Notes

FAMILY THEATRE

If there are any women in Dixon brave enough, they will be given an opportunity tonight to go on the stage at the Family Theatre and see if they can prove whether the Mysterious Fontinelle is alive. Fontinelle is the limit, it seems, but no one knows apparently, what he is. The ladies can take their hat pins along tonight and jab them into the figure, then, maybe, it can be shown that the mystery is not an automation but is really flesh and blood.

In addition to this attraction, Paul Rhan and the Four London Girls will share the honors of the bill.

FONTINELLE, THE MYSTERY AT THE FAMILY THEATRE, COMING TONIGHT.

DIXON OPERA HOUSE.

Smiles are bound to be many at the opera house on Friday evening, Jan. 27th, just as they were at the Princess and Garrick theatres, Chicago, during the entire summer just past. There is nothing else for the beholder of "Baby Mine" to do after the curtain goes up but laugh, laugh, laugh and then laugh some more. It is as impossible to keep from laughing at the latest farce success as it would be to refuse to laugh at the late Joseph Jefferson playing the first grave digger in Hamlet. The mood comes upon you and though the intention in the spectator's mind may be otherwise, the rapid flow of the scenes and situations that are built up with the skill of a Sardou causes him to forget everything else but the farce before him and laugh with the remainder of the audience.

EARLE MITCHELL,
In "Baby Mine" at the Dixon Opera House Friday, Jan. 27th.

In the company coming to the opera house are Consuelo Bailey, Earle Mitchell, George Probert, Natalie Perry, J. H. Davies, Gilda Varesi, Richard Collins, May Barton, Geo. Stanhope and the remainder of the original Chicago cast.

MARGARET ANGLIN IN NEW PLAY

Margaret Anglin on Monday night, succeeded Gertrude Elliott as the Liebler & Co.'s star in the Grand Opera house, beginning her engagement in a new play, a comedy, called "Green Stockings" in which she will be seen in a role entirely new in its kind, so far as this brilliant actress is concerned.

Green Stockings tells the unique story of a girl, Celia Faraday, who sees one sister after another get married without never a suitor coming for her. According to an old legend of the countryside in which she resides, the unmarried daughter of a family must wear green stockings when the younger sisters are married off. Rebelling against the humiliation she tells that she is engaged to a Colonel Smith who is fighting the Boers in South Africa. And there ensues many complications.

James Barnett has returned to Des Moines.

GIRL SET ON FIRE BY SWEETHEART

Lewis Skelton Charged With an Attempt to Kill Miss Liford

VICTIM IS SAID TO BE DYING

Miss Liford Makes Charge That Skelton Poured Coal Oil on Her Clothing and Then Deliberately Set Her Afire.

Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 26.—Charged with attempting to murder his sweetheart, Miss Lillie Liford, by pouring coal oil on her clothes and then applying a match, Lewis Skelton, of Smithville, is in jail here, having been arrested at Stinesville by Sheriff James Browning.

The charge against Skelton was made by the girl's father, Walter Liford, former marshal of Ellettsville. The girl is at the point of death. Her physician, Dr. W. W. Harris, of Ellettsville, says there is no chance for her recovery.

The attempt at murder took place at the girl's home. Skelton had been keeping company with the girl for some time, and went from Stinesville to Ellettsville to spend the evening with her. The two were together when the family were aroused by the cries of Skelton and hurried to the assistance of the girl. Her clothing was a mass of flames, and by the time the fire was extinguished she was seriously burned.

She has since been unconscious, with the exception of a few minutes. It is alleged that in one of her moments of consciousness she made the charge that Skelton poured oil on her and set her on fire.

DANVILLE VOTE SCANDAL

Grand Jury to Probe Vote Buying to Bottom—Officials Summoned.

Danville, Ill., Jan. 26.—The lid is off Danville's election scandal pot. The Vermilion county grand jury has issued subponaes for Circuit Judge Kimbrough, Circuit Judge Mert W. Thompson, Mayor Louis Platte and many other county and district officials who have been elected to office within the last three years. States Attorney John H. Lewman also announced that he would testify.

This action is taken to mean that all efforts to stop the inquiry have failed and that instead of abandoning the investigation, the inquisitors will go to the bottom of every rumor of vote buying. Foreman Woodyard says that subpoenaes have been issued for every city, town and county official in Vermilion county.

DORINDA

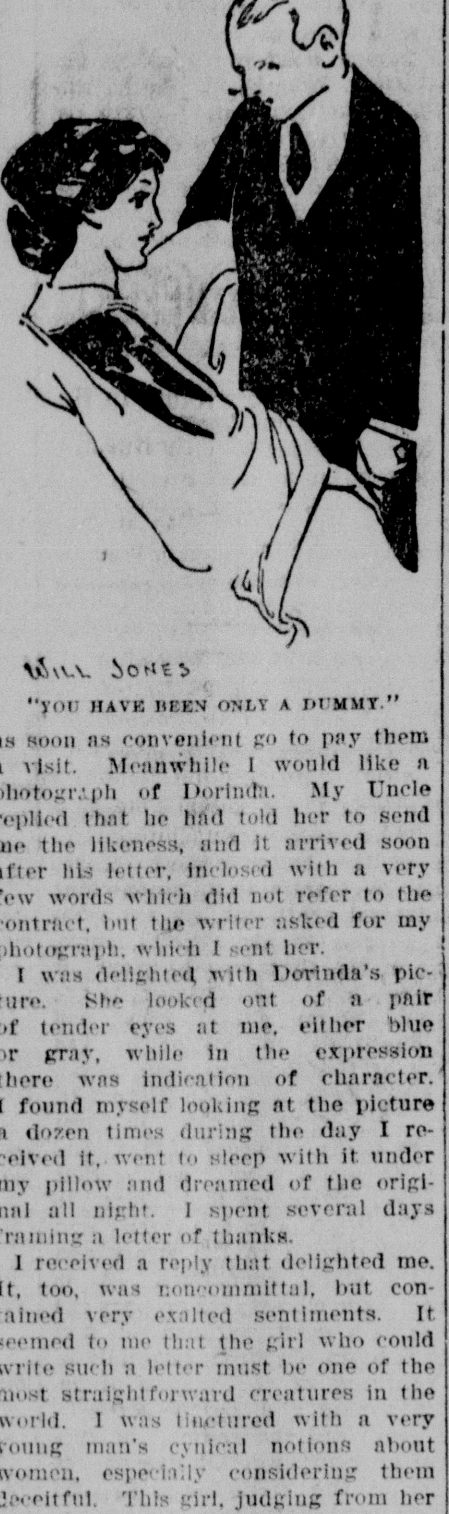
How She Kept a Contract Made For Her by Her Father

By F. A. MITCHEL

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Dorinda Childs and I were born the same day. My father and my uncle, Dorinda's father, made an agreement that we two children should marry on our twenty-first birthday—that is, if such a result could be brought about. When we came of age my father had been dead ten years. A few months before I came to my majority I received a letter from my uncle informing me of the agreement made twenty one years before. We lived a thousand miles apart, and I had never seen either him or his daughter.

I am of rather a romantic disposition, and the idea of this marriage was fascinating to me. I wrote my uncle that I would be pleased to make the acquaintance of the young lady to whom I had been pledged and would as soon as convenient go to pay them a visit. Meanwhile I would like a photograph of Dorinda. My Uncle replied that he had told her to send me the likeness, and it arrived soon after his letter, inclosed with a very few words which did not refer to the contract, but the writer asked for my photograph, which I sent her.



"YOU HAVE BEEN ONLY A DUMMY."

I was delighted with Dorinda's picture. She looked out of a pair of tender eyes at me, either blue or gray, while in the expression there was indication of character. I found myself looking at the picture a dozen times during the day I received it, went to sleep with it under my pillow and dreamed of the original all night. I spent several days framing a letter of thanks.

I received a reply that delighted me. It, too, was noncommittal, but contained very exalted sentiments. It seemed to me that the girl who could write such a letter must be one of the most straightforward creatures in the world. I was tinctured with a very young man's cynical notions about women, especially considering them deceitful. This girl, judging from her photograph and her letter, was evidently the very impersonation of truth. I could not conceive of her stooping to the slightest deception.

Other letters followed, and we soon fell to discussing on paper the matter of paramount interest to both of us. My cousin wrote that she thought we should carry out the contract which had been made for us by our fathers unless we proved to be positively repulsive to each other. To this I demurred emphatically. We were not bound by any contract in which we had not had a part. To this she replied that her dear father had set his heart on seeing before his death the completion of an agreement made with the brother he loved so well. Therefore she confessed that even without a romantic affection for me she would be disposed to yield to his wishes.

One morning on reading my paper I saw that a trust company that had had the care of what property I was to inherit on coming of age had failed. I soon learned that my fortune, some $50,000, had been lost with the wreck. I at once wrote Doriuda to inform her of the change in my affairs and told her that any matrimonial intentions I might have must be put off indefinitely. I also wrote to my uncle to the same effect.

I received no reply from him, Dorinda writing for him to say that he preferred not to influence us in the matter and left us free to act for ourselves. For her part my misfortune had drawn me nearer to her. She had nothing in her own right and would inherit but a small sum from her father, but if I wished a helpmeet she would willingly bear such a lot as I should carve out for myself. She believed, judging from my letters, that I possessed honesty and integrity. If I also possessed energy there would be nothing to fear.

Smarting as I was under my loss, this was just what I wished to hear from a girl with whom I was contemplating marriage. But so long as her action was influenced by her father's wish, that she should fulfill a contract made for her by him, I took no real satisfaction in these manifestations of a noble nature. The sensible thing for me to do, had I not sent my photograph, thus making me known to my cousin, would be to go to her and win her, leaving her to find out my identity after she had given me her heart. I have admitted that I have a lot of romance in me and such a plan appealed to me; but, since the sending of my likeness rendered it impossible, the next best thing to do would be to go and spend some time with her. We might thus confer together and come to a conclusion more advantageously than by standing off with nothing but cold letters between us.

So I wrote Dorinda that if it would be convenient I would make her and her father a visit. In reply I was surprised to receive a letter from my uncle, who cordially invited me to come and make as long a stay as I could. He added that Dorinda would write, but was somewhat under the weather. It occurred to me that my cousin's maidenly modesty had at the prospect of our meeting got the better of her and that this was the real reason for her silence.

My uncle lived in the country, and I was obliged to drive several miles to his house. On turning an angle of the road I saw coming a young man and a young girl. They were hurrying, and when they reached me the young man asked:

"Did you come in on an up train?"

"Yes," I replied, drawing rein.

He turned to the girl with a disappointed look. "There's not another train for two hours. What shall we do?"

She drew him away from me for a whispered conference, casting singular glances at me as if I had something to do with their affairs. The young man came to me and said:

"All the world loves a lover."

"Y-e-s," I assented, thinking he referred to me.

"We are a runaway couple. We have missed our train. There is a down train in seven minutes (looking at his watch). If you will lend me your rig we can make it. If not our game is spoiled."

"Get right in here and I'll drive you to the station."

They climbed up, and we all crowded together on one seat. I galloped the horse to the station, but we had plenty of time, since the train was late. The girl went into the station and on the back of a letter her lover gave her wrote a few lines, putting an address on also. Folding it, she handed it to me.

"Will you deliver that?" she asked.

"I will."

"Before you go anywhere else?"

"I promise."

"Give it to the person for whom it is intended yourself."

The train came rattling up to the platform, the young man loaded me with thanks, the girl looked at me with that singular expression her face wore whenever her eyes were upon me, we all shook hands, and they climbed into the train and were gone. Then I got back into my buggy. Looking at the address on the paper I was intrusted with, I saw the name "Edith Boynton." I asked the station master where Miss Boynton lived, and he described the place. After a twenty minute drive I reached a handsome house and grounds that fitted the description. I drove in under a porte-cochere. A groom held my horse. I went in and sent up the note with my card.

When Miss Boynton came in I was paralyzed with astonishment. She was the original of the photograph of my cousin. She was both blushing and smiling.

"Dorinda!" I exclaimed.

"No. Dorinda wrote this note," she said, glancing at the paper I handed her.

"What does it all mean?" I gasped.

"Be seated," she replied, "and I will tell you, or, rather, I will confess."

I sank into a seat, and she, throwing herself on a sofa, made her confession.

"Dorinda and I are bosom friends. For a year past she has been in love with the man with whom you met her. Her father has been trying to persuade her to fulfill the contract made for her and you when you were born. She concealed her love affair from him and called me in to help her out. It was my picture you received, and it was I who corresponded with you."

I was dumfounded. I sat staring at the girl till she put her handkerchief to her face for a screen.

"Is it possible," I said at last, "that all this deception has been practiced by the girl who wrote those letters laden with such noble sentiments?"

"I was helping my friend," she pleaded.

"But I— Neither of you seems to have considered me."

There was no reply to this.

"May I ask what my cousin said in that note?"

"She wrote it merely to send you to me for an explanation before going to her father. When you proposed to make them a visit I was temporarily absent. If Dorinda had written you in her own hand it would have been a different one from those you had been receiving, so she handed your letter to her father for reply."

"Well," I said, rising, "since I have been left out of this lovers' tale I suppose there's nothing for me to do except to return to my home."

"Why should you be disappointed at losing Dorinda? You have had nothing to do with her."

"But you have been only a dummy."

A red signal appeared in her cheek to tell me that she had not been a dummy. There is much to add to this, but it is a story by itself. She had pretended to be poor, while she was rich. That kept us apart for some time, but not forever. I have the letters she wrote me, and they do not seem so noble now as they did then. Nevertheless we are a happy couple.

BUSY THRESHING CUCUMBER CROP

SOUNDS FUNNY BUT IT IS TRUE NEVERTHELESS THAT THEY ARE THRESHED.

MUST SAVE SEED

Watermelons, Cantaloupes and Other Vine Products Also Put Through the Mill.

Topeka, Kan.—The annual threshing of cucumbers, cantalopes and water melons, attracts much attention in Kansas. Threshing cucumbers is considered more or less of a joke, but it really isn't. The threshing of the cucumbers and other vine plants is necessary to get seed for another crop. The threshing season begins about the first of October and continues until late in December, or even later if there should be much wet weather.

The cucumbers and melons are grown in rows from four to eight feet apart and about the middle of September the farmer takes on ordinary hayrake and rakes the field into windows, vines, fruit and all. The vines or melons are allowed to dry a month or more, depending on the weather, and then the threshing begins.

There are few canning factories in Kansas, so it is more profitable for the farmer to grow cucumbers for seed than for pickles. Many Eastern seed houses have contracts with Kansas farmers to furnish seed each year. Watermelon seeds are worth 30 to 50 cents a pound and the cantaloupe and cucumber seed from $1 to $2 a pound. The average revenue is from $60 to $80 an acre.

The thresher is built on a wagon. It consists of two sollers to crush the dried cucumbers and a wire screen cylinder. The thresher is operated by a small gasoline engine as the wagon is drawn through the field by horses. Men pick up the cucumbers and dump them into the shopper to be crushed. The mass of pulp passes into the cylinder, which is kept revolving rapidly. The seed are loosened from the pulp and drop through the screen meshes into the seed box below. The pulp works out of the cylinder through an opening and is left on the ground.

As fast as a seed box is filled, it is removed and the seeds are washed clean of bits of pulp and placed in drying traps and left in the sun.

The same process is used in threshing cantaloupes and watermelons, except that the melons are cut into small pieces by revolving knives before reaching the crusher.

WOMAN'S CHANCE.

Advocates of woman suffrage will derive little comfort from the news that in Chicago, where women will have a chance at the next election to vote for trustees of the University of Illinois, only 490 esteemed this glorious privilege sufficiently to register. Equal suffrage champions had been urging upon their sisters the importance of taking part in politics, and this educational campaign brought out exactly 490 women. As there must be about 450,000 women in Chicago who were eligible to register and vote in this election, the participation of fully 490 shows a most remarkable interest.

This is even worse than the showing made in Massachusetts 15 years ago. Then a referendum upon the question of municipal suffrage for women was submitted to the women of that state. About 575,000 women were eligible to vote—and it should be remembered that the question they were to decide was whether woman should have the ballot in municipal elections. Out of 575,000 only 22,204 took the trouble to go to the ballot box to register their desire for the ballot.

In the face of such facts is it any wonder that many conservative thinkers hesitate to force the ballot upon woman? A small percentage of women is loudly clamoring for it. A far greater percentage is totally indifferent to it, as shown by such experiences as that in Chicago. The apathy of the male voter is appalling; that of the female voter is almost incomprehensible. So far she has certainly shown no overwhelming desire to take up the burden of politics, and there appears no very potent reason why she should be made to do so because 490 out of 250,000 yearn to vote.—Pittsburg Gazette Times.

"What impressed you most the pyramids of Egypt or the pagodas of China?"

"Oh, I don't know. They both made good backgrounds for photographs of our party."

Belle—"Why don't you like Dell?"

Nelle—"Oh, she flirts all the time."

Belle—"Well, don't be hard on her. Remember you were young yourself once, dear."

A wise man doesn't pay a young widow compliments unless he is matrimonially inclined and willing to pay her bills.

Women deserve to be loved nobly, but they take what they can get.

It's easier to argue into trouble than to get in any other way.

Men who never failed don't believe in luck.

VERIFY IT

THE PROOF IS IN DIXON ALMOST AT YOUR DOOR.

The statement of a Dixon citizen is in itself strong proof for Dixon people, but confiramtion strengthens the evidence.

Here is a Dixon citizen who testified years ago that Doan's Kidney Pills relieved sick kidneys and now states the cure was permanent. Can any sufferer from kidney ills ask better proof? You can investigate. The case is right at home.

Mrs. W. H. Randall, 423 College Ave., Dixon, Ill., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been used in our home with the best of results and I feel that I cannot praise them too highly. One member of the family suffered for some time from backache and severe pains across the kidneys and Doan's Didney Pills, procured at Leake Bros.' & Co.'s drug store brought prompt relief, removing all symptoms of kidney complaint. We value this remedy very highly." (Statement given April 14, 1909.)

A Lasting Effect.

On Jan. 11, 1910, Mrs. Randall said: "Doan's Kidney Pils made a permanent cure in the case of a member of our family. I still have great confidence in this remedy and willingly permit the further publication of my former statement in its favor."

LEWIS BADLY DEFEATED

White Declared Victor in Race for U. M. W. of A. Head.

Defeated Man Takes Rap at "Other Leaders" in Speech from Platform Following Vote Announcement.

Columbus, O., Jan. 26.—After three years as head of the United Mine Workers of America, President Tom L. Lewis, of Bridgeport, O., will retire April 1. Election tellers who counted the referendum vote of last fall declared John P. White, of Oskaloosa, Ia., elected as president over Lewis by 26,000 votes.

Lewis was given a great ovation when he addressed the convention following the report. He said that he would go back to the mines to work. Amid cheers he went on to say that he wouldn't accept a "salared position from men who own mines, as many retiring officials of labor organizations have done."

Lewis was the first to extend congratulations to White. The latter, addressing the convention, expressed his intention of respecting the present policies of the organization and to bring about an end to factionalism. All old officers, except Lewis, were re-elected.

PROHIBITIONISTS ARE NOT AGREED

National Committeemen Clash in Chicago Meeting.

INSURGENCY REARS ITS HEAD

Remarks of J. B. Smith of Madison, Wis., in Calling to Order the "Congress" at the Chicago Auditorium Meeting.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Double-barreled insurgency asserted itself during the reconvened session of the Prohibition national committee. The meeting of the committee was adjourned from the La Salle hotel to the Sherman house, and an effort was made to adjourn it from there to the Auditorium, where the "Congress" opened, but this failed by one vote, that of Charles B. Jones, national chairman, who cast the ballot to decide a tie vote of the committeemen.

While William P. F. Ferguson, editor of the National Prohibitionist, was addressing the committee on charges he had made, that perjury, forgery and other illegal methods were used in obtaining the required number of names to petitions to get committeemen on the ticket in the First, Second and Third congressional districts of Illinois, the real insurgent movement was being inaugurated at the Auditorium.

"We are insurgents of the most pronounced kind," declared J. B. Smith of Madison, Wis., who called to order at the Auditorium the gathering known as the "Congress."

"We have no official recognition from the executive committee, but I have received assurance from sixty-eight of the most prominent workers that they are with us, and will attend our sessions to outline a new propaganda for the Prohibition party. We aim to save the Prohibition party from the clutches of schemers who have used it for the cause of constitutional amendments, local option and other issues that are not national. We want to give it a new life and push it forward as a great third party."

Mr. Smith, who is contesting for a seat in the committee with Rev. W. D. Cox of Milwaukee, Wis., who is a lecturer in the Anto-Saloon league work, said that the methods of the Anti-Saloon league were not in harmony with those of the Prohibition party.

If the national committee should adjourn without waiting to hear from the "Congress" a new party is among the possibilities.

Although requested by Mr. Smith, who sent out the call for the "Congress," to convene at the same time as the "Congress," the national committee met two days earlier. The "Congress' leaders expected to be in session two more days, while the committeemen announced a desire to leave for their homes.

GIFT FOR BLIND CHAPLAIN

Representatives in House Remember Silver Anniversary of Rev. Couden.

Washington, Jan. 26. — Three hundred newly coined silver dollars were locked in the safe of the sergeant-at-arms of the house last night. Today it was turned over to Rev. Henry N. Couden, the blind chaplain of the house, as a little token that the members upon whom he invokes the divine blessing have not forgotten his silver wedding anniversary.

The Democrats started the movement to give Mr. Couden this present, which is an indication that he will remain as chaplain of the house in the Democratic congress. Mr Couden did not know the $300 was waiting for him. It was planned to surprise him when Mrs. Couden, whom he married out in Ohio twenty-five years ago, brings him to the house today. Speaker-to-be Champ Clark will make the presentation speech.

Despondent Woman Garment Worker Tries to End Her Life.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Thrown out of employment by the garment workers' strike, Lena Ganza, eighteen years old, a union seamstress, has been trying for weeks, but in vain, to find other kind of work.

In arrears for her room rent, downhearted and discouraged, she attempted to end her life by taking poison in her room at the home of Mrs. Frank Madryeski, 2656 North Leavitt street. She was taken unconscious to St. Elizabeth's hospital where doctors said she might die.

Charles made an affidavit alleging that his brother Dick was the principal and that he produced McCarthy's roll of greenbacks after the robbery. The police are looking for Dick and his brother will be detained as a witness against him.

Keith of the Border

By Randall Parrish

"Eight years of fighting and rough living, and what had they brought him?" At the beginning of this story nothing—apparently. But things begin to happen by the seventh page, and before you finish the book you are only too glad that Jack Keith is "a hard rider, a quick shot, a scorner of danger, and a bad man to fool with." You know that Randall Parrish never fails to give you all the mystery and excitement you like, and the love story that every novel reader really wants
